Product Brand Guidelines

The BioMar Swoosh!

A unified identity

Our product logos have been redesigned to form one visual family. This change reflects BioMar's position as a global brand, where consistency and recognition are key. By aligning the look and feel of our product marks, we create stronger ties across markets and ensure our identity is clear wherever BioMar is present.

One Swoosh. One BioMar.
At the core of this new design is the swoosh. It is the recurring element across all product logos and the link that ties them back to BioMar.

The swoosh symbolises movement, continuity, and the shared purpose of our feeds, while at the same time acting as the symbol that unites the full product range under a single identity. It ensures that every product logo is instantly recognisable as BioMar, providing a consistent visual signature across the entire portfolio.

Capitalisation of Product Names

For consistency, product names with sub-brands follow a clear capitalisation rule. On logos, both the concept name and the sub-brand are always written in uppercase letters to ensure a uniform visual expression.

In body text, there are different versions on how to display the sub-brands.

Standard Version
In body text, the concept name is always written in uppercase, while the sub-brand follows its defined form. For standard sub-brands, this means the first letter is uppercase and the remaining letters are lowercase.

Internal Capitalisation
In body text, the concept name is always written in uppercase, while the sub-brand follows its defined form. For sub-brands with specific internal capitalisation, such as "ProStart," this structure must always be retained.

2+ Words Sub-brand
In body text, the concept name is always written in uppercase, while the sub-brand follows its common form: the first letter in uppercase and the remaining letters in lowercase, unless otherwise specified. If the sub-brand consists of two or more words, all words will begin with an uppercase letter.

Additional Letters

In body text, the concept name is always written in uppercase, while the sub-brand follows its common form. When the sub-brand contains a word followed by letters, the word is written with the first letter uppercase and the remaining letters lowercase, while the extra letters remain in full uppercase. For example: "Plus MT"

Capitalisation of SmartCare Products

SmartCare follows a specific capitalisation rule. The concept name is always written as SmartCare with a capital "S" and "C," both in logos and in body text.

On logos, sub-brands are always written in uppercase letters to ensure a strong and consistent visual identity.

In body text, sub-brands follow the standard capitalisation rules:

- For single-word sub-brands, only the first letter is uppercase (e.g. Calm).
- For sub-brands with more than one word, each word begins with an uppercase letter (e.g. Assist Skin).
- For sub-brands that include standalone letters, those letters remain in uppercase (e.g. Control Gill Q).
